

What Is Your God-Schedule

Do you give God his time?

Go through the process of budgeting your time. Evaluate your priorities with your actual expenditure of time on the Lord. Don't exaggerate, but neither should you underestimate. You may have to add a category, like family devotions, choir as ministry prep, or worship team ministry which doubles as worship time.

| Event | Calendar Schedule | Hours Spent |
|-----------------|--------------------------|--------------------|
| Devotions | | |
| Sunday School | | |
| Worship a.m. | | |
| Worship p.m. | | |
| Prayer Mtg | | |
| Ministry Preps. | | |
| Ministry Tasks | | |
| Other | | |
| | Sub Total | ___ hours |
| Leadership time | | |
| Leadership time | | |
| | Total | ___ hours |

If you total more than 10 ½ hours then you are maxed out beyond reasonable expectations. You ought not to add to your schedule more activities unless you are retired and have time to give. If you total less than 6 hours you probably need to add some God -time.

If you find your are “cheating” yourself and God of the time allotted to him then it is time to begin prioritizing the King in your life. Maybe you should increase your devotional time, or start attending Sunday School, church, or a Bible Study. If you find that you have not given God any Ministry Time then look at the Jobs For Jesus sheet provided in the foyer and decide how you will serve the King.
